Dear Editor

The review of revised manuscript produced the following decision:

“Thank you for the thorough track changes and comments. The changes you have made have improved the manuscript and I am now happy to accept it as is.”

In your email, it is stated that “Some corrections are necessary before the manuscript can be published.”

In our final version, we carefully edited the text, verified the use of grammar and syntax. We checked and corrected some small details of references. The final version will be subjected to Editorial English proofread (paid service of the journal) so it will receive all necessary corrections.

Thank you very much for your cooperation

Oleg S Pokrovsky, on behalf of co-authors.